

ABSTRACT

An automated human resource assessment system having computer-based processes. Specifically, programmable hardware or software system having standardized profile
5 parameters that may be combined with database management or statistical techniques to screen, evaluate, or match individuals with defined profile parameters.